

„Taps” Sound For Thomas Kiniry, Vet.

WAS RESIDENT OF WILL COUNTY FOR SIXTY YEARS

„Taps” sounded suddenly Monday night for another Civil war veteran when Thomas Kiniry, well-known resident of Frankfort, formerly of Mokena, was summoned by death to join the great silent army.

Mr. Kiniry, apparently in good health, had taken part in the Memorial day exercises at Frankfort and was in the company of the old soldiers of the community in the parade and also on the stand during the program. He greatly enjoyed the day and in the evening was together with the Fred Warning family, where he was making his home. As he had arisen early Memorial day morning, he told his family he would retire a little earlier. Tuesday morning he failed to come downstairs for his breakfast. Mrs. Fred Hunter, his granddaughter, took notice of this fact, and told her father, Fred Warning, about it. Mr. Warning went upstairs to Mr. Kiniry's room and found him dead in bed. From all indications Mr. Kiniry had died about midnight. There was no sign of any struggle, so evidently he passed away in his sleep. The suddenness of Mr. Kiniry's death was a great blow to his family and friends, with whom he had celebrated Memorial day only a few hours before.

Thomas Kiniry was born in New York city on March 16, 1838. When a young man he came West and located at Mokena, remaining in this section for 60 years. When the Civil war broke out he rallied to the call of his country and saw three years of service. He was a member of the One Hundredth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, Company C. On April 3, 1871, he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Miller, daughter of Henry Jackson and Ann Miller of Mokena. To this union three children were born, of whom one child preceded the parents in death. Mrs. Kiniry died in 1905.

For many years Mr. Kiniry was flagman for the Rock Island at Mokena, and many a story of the days gone by that were told in the old flag shanty. While the weight of years had somewhat weakened his physical strength, his mental powers remained unimpaired, and he took an active interest in all public questions of the day. He stood as he had all the years of his life, as a unit representing the true American, both as a man and as a citizen.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from the Warning home to the Frankfort M. E. church. Hundreds of friends gathered to pay their last tribute to their old friend and fellow townsman. Burial took place in Pleasant Hill cemetery.

Rev. W. H. Ake of Blue Island, former pastor of the local M. E. church officiated. A delegation of the Joliet Bartels Post G. A. R., headed by William McDermott attended the funeral.

The deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Fred Warning, Frankfort; Mrs. Charles Hanson of Plainfield; two grandchildren and one great-grandchild, one brother living in Colorado and a great many friends.

Cavallini and Dottini are preparing to hold a grand opening of their ice cream parlor, restaurant and hotel in the former Folkers building, within the next two weeks. Some of the marble furnishings and mosaic paneling has not been installed. This is the finest business place in town.

The annual Memorial day exercises were held Monday. A very good program was carried out at the school grounds. A band and chorus and quartette from Joliet furnished the music. The old veterans were conveyed in autos in the parade to Pleasant Hill cemetery, where the graves of the soldiers were decorated with flowers. A number of addresses were delivered by various good speakers. Hundreds of people attended the parade and program.

A steam roller has been used in building

MOKENA GIRL IS JUNE BRIDE

Miss Alma Bechstein and George Cooper were quietly married at the home of the bride Wednesday afternoon, June 1, at 2:45 o'clock. At the appointed hour the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Lohegrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Myrtle Cappel. Rev. William Krels of St. John's Evangelical church performed the wedding rites, the ring ceremony being used. The bride was charmingly attired in gray tulle and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by her sister, Edna, who was gowned in pink silk and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by Arthur Krels. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate families.

Following the ceremony a two-course wedding supper was served. The dining room was prettily decorated in old rose and gray, the bride's colors. The bride couple have gone to housekeeping on the groom's farm at the Five Corners, Plainfield. Mr. Cooper is the rural mail carrier on Route 4 running out of the Joliet post office. The many friends of this worthy young couple wish them an abundance of joy and happiness.

Mokena Youth Weds New York Girl June 2

Prof. and Mrs. W. P. Flarety spent this road. Half of the front street in the village as well as the entire stretch of road running out of the village to the four corners has been oiled by the state. The work of grading the Lincoln Highway and of putting in new culverts and bridges has been well under way for several weeks. When completed there will be no sharp curves in the highway, as there once were, as all sharp bends have been straightened and this highway has been so changed that it will be one of the most perfect driveways in the state. This highway is going to mean a great deal to Frankfort, as it gives this town a continuous hard road to Chicago.

The Frankfort baseball team journeyed to Dyer Sunday and was defeated by the Hoosier team by a score of 9 to 12. The Frankfort team plays the colored Giants of Joliet Sunday, and a big crowd of fans is looked for.

During the latter part of the afternoon and evening the Ladies' Aid society of the St. Peter's Evangelical church held their kaffee kranz and served supper at the church basement.

A company of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry Schram Saturday afternoon to celebrate her birthday. Frankfort is making plans for a monster 4th of July celebration.

The Brotherhood of St. Peter's Evangelical church will meet next Tuesday evening.

Much interest is centering just now on the assembling of the new airplane by Rev. Mr. Strohschein. The plane is being assembled in the Folkers ice house. The work of assembling is being retarded somewhat on account of the motor not having arrived. It is expected that the machine will be ready for trial flight within the next month or so. It is understood that if this machine proves to be the success which the inventors say it will be, a factory will be erected at Frankfort to manufacture same. This surely would put Frankfort on the map. It is said this machine has everything of its kind backed off the boards and is the only steam driven plane now known of.

The „J” section men do not have to work as hard now as they did years ago when they tamped ties. A new tamping machine operated by compressed air is now in use and does far better work than could be done by hand. The tamping machine works with 75 pounds' pressure to the inch.

TINLEY PARK WANTS BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

The Rock Island is giving Tinley Park and Mokena very wretched train service of late. Since the new time went into effect people desiring to go to Chicago on Sunday morning can only go at 5:30 a. m., standard time, or at 8:30 a. m., which later train brings one to the city about ten o'clock. To make matters worse, No. 18, east bound, formerly due here at 6:32, has been changed to 5:40 p. m., which is the last train to the city in the evening. People visiting here on Sunday must take this train or remain until the next day. Oak Forest and Midlothian have all kinds of train service.

Suburban trains are run from Blue Island. Why is it that the country towns are given such wretched service? The new change mentioned went into effect Sunday. The citizens of Mokena and Tinley Park should bestir themselves and get up a petition asking the railroad company to place No. 18 back on its old schedule. So long as no one says anything no change will be made. Let us all get busy and demand better service. If the railroad officials are shown at what a disadvantage the country people are for service they, being human, like the rest of us, will no doubt see that the matter is remedied. A petition was recently circulated and signatures secured asking the railroad company to stop the fast train going east at 9:40 p. m., but nothing has been heard from the railroad since the petition was sent in. This stop, if granted, would be an excellent accommodation.

The Tinley Park public school held their annual commencement exercises Thursday evening at the Grange hall. A very good program was carried out.

The Blue Island Bowlers held a picnic at the Linden Garden Saturday night. Tire thieves were busy, too. Two extra tires were taken from a machine parked in the garden and the thieves were caught and the tires recovered. The miscreants were not arrested, however. WHO KNOWS WHAT PEACE IS FOR?

Some people think that when peace is signed one is finished with war, and in a way they are right.

What peace has done for Europe is almost more than one can say. But if what they have over there be peace, we prefer our own state of war. Although peace has been signed, one would never know it if he were over there. Of course they are not

ORLAND OBSERVES MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial services were conducted at the Cooper, Brook and other cemeteries of the community. Elaborate and appropriate programs were arranged. The trustees of the Cooper cemetery launched a campaign for an endowment fund of $1,000, the interest on which should be used for all time to keep the cemetery in order. Counting $200 already in the treasury for this fund, there was raised on the $1,000 the sum of $630. Joseph Creer, Edgar Cooper and Mrs. Cox are the trustees, and they are hopeful that in the near future the complete sum will be reached. Other cemeteries that have not already done so are apt to follow a like plan. A good deal of praise is due these trustees for the work they have already done this year by way of improving our cemetery. Those willing to give on the endowment fund would render them a distinct favor if they would see them and make a liberal subscription.

The memorial service held by the Methodist church on Sunday evening in honor of the living soldiers of all wars was attended by nine World-war soldiers. The service was largely attended. The patriotic spirit manifested was very commendable. The service rendered by the choir in special numbers and otherwise was very gratifying to all those present.

Rev. W. M. Tisdale returned Monday to Bloomington, where he is engaged on a university endowment fund.

fighting any other country, but are having a "grand and glorious" fight among themselves.

After this war debt is paid, we might very likely be on the warpath again, with Japan over the island of Yap.

After peace we always have the debt, for peace is the only time given to the people to finish paying for the war.

If some one would have patience enough to keep track of that everlasting peace we were going to have (the League of Nations) it would no doubt make a great scrap-book.

MR. FOX AND THE STOATS

IT WAS winter time in the woods, and the Four-Footed club sat around the fire talking over their affairs, for they had cooked the last turkey and the last of the wood was now burning.

"In all my long experience," said Mr. Fox, "I have never known food to be so scarce, and what there is of it is so poor I doubt sometimes if Mr. Man can be feeding his fowl as he should."

"I think Mr. Dog gets more than his share," said Mr. Coon, "for he seems strong enough. He can run just as far as ever I can see."

"I should not be surprised if he were to blame," said Mr. Possum, "for our hard luck; maybe he eats up everything that Mr. Man gives to the poultry, he is so strong and big. Very likely he takes it away from those poor things."

"No, it isn't Mr. Dog who is to blame if I am a guesser," said Mr. Fox, setting back in his chair and taking from his mouth his corn-cob pipe, "but I think I can tell you who is to blame for our not having anything in our pantry."

But Mr. Fox wished to be asked, and did not stop smoking until Mr. Coon could stand it no longer, and asked: "Who is taking our food? Tell us, if you know!"

"Well, perhaps I should not say he is taking it right away from us, but certainly if he and his family were not around we would have no trouble in getting plenty to eat."

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

THE USE OF "THE."

THIS little word, which is called by grammarians the definite article, is often misused, being placed in sentences where it does not belong, and being left out where it should be used. Often such misuse causes misunderstanding of the meaning of the writer or speaker. For example, suppose you say, "The president and secretary of the lodge attended the meeting." This is correct if the offices of president and secretary are united in one person; that is, if there is one man who is both president and secretary. But if there are two men, one of whom is the president and the other is the secretary, the sentence should read, "The president and the secretary of the lodge attended the meeting." The article should be repeated; then there is no room for misunderstanding the speaker or the writer.

When we say, "The black and white horse," we mean one horse which is marked with the two colors; but when we say, "The black horse and the white horse," we mean two horses, one black and one white.

ELAINE

A SOUTHERN favorite is Elaine, that most poetical and harmonious of feminine names. Before the Civil war, every proud family of southern blood had an Elaine among its daughters, the Elaine Fitzhughs and Elaine Dulanys were legion, each a "helle of three counties" and the despair of many a lovelorn southern gallant.

But Elaine was not born in the South by any matter of means. Her origin dates back to the days of beautiful Helen of Troy, when the name Helen, coming from the Greek hellos, meaning light, was permitted to drop its initial "h" and become Ellen. In Cambria, however, this was too lacking in poetry to be popular and it was called Elaine. It occurred under that spelling in the registers of early times and thus explains the gentle Lady Elaine, mother of Sir Galahad, whom Tennyson makes his Lady of Shalott.

The name came to prominence again as Lady Elaine of the Round Table, Elaine the fair, Elaine the lovable, Elaine the lily maid of Astolat, whose

"But who is it?" asked Mr. Possum, sitting on the very edge of his chair, with impatience. "Who is it, Mr. Fox? Tell us that!"

When Mr. Fox had begun to fill his pipe, he said: "It is Mr. Stoat and family. Yes, that whole stuck-up family are to blame, and when I think of that miserable, sneaking lot I think I should do something desperate!"

"But I do not see how they take away our supply," said Mr. Coon, "I have never seen them around here."

"No, of course not," said Mr. Fox. "But don't you know that the whole Stoat family has new white coats, and that it can get around in the snow without being seen much easier than I can, or either of you fellows?"

"That Stoat family," said Mr. Fox, "when I was a youngster, used to be called the weasel family, and when they are not dressed in those fine white coats of theirs they wear a very homely brown one, and are a very common-looking family; so they need not put on airs with me."

"I thought of a plan to drive away that Stoat family," said Mr. Fox, "but I must have some help, and there is no chasing in it; so you two need not get uneasy."

"I want you to go with me up to Mr. Man's barn. There are plenty of rats in there, and there is also a big pile of black paint, and that is where we put it over Mr. Stoat and family." Just what happened inside the barn Mr. Fox and his friends never knew. But when the Stoat family came out they could be plainly seen against the white snow, for every one of that family was black.

Whether the farmer tracked them by the paint or whether they felt so disgraced by having their fine white coats spoiled Mr. Fox and his friends never knew; but they disappeared from around those parts and the farmyard was not so carefully guarded after that.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

STATION ETIQUETTE

Powerful indeed is the empire of habit.—Publius Syrus.

TO SAY that the well-bred person is on time when he takes a train might be unfair. But it is a fact the well-bred person shows his consideration for others in his actions, and the person who comes into the station behind time, pushes by other people, runs into them with his traveling bag, summons a porter curtly and tries to push ahead of others at the ticket window, is acting in an inconsiderate manner. He is also making himself conspicuous, and the well-bred person does not attract undue attention to himself in public places.

It is nothing to be ashamed of if one has traveled but little, and some excellent folk have perhaps never been in a railroad train more than once or twice in their lives. Still it is but natural that we should all want to appear to be at ease when we travel, and not to proclaim by our manners that we have never been about before. Your conduct in the railroad station should therefore be composed and unruffled. If you have time to idle away before train time it is quite all right to go to the newsstand and purchase a paper or magazine and read it; but there is no reason why you should have to invest in chewing gum, salted nuts and gum drops, weigh yourself, and leave your fortune told by one of the penny-in-the-slot machines, pace back and forth in the station, delve in your traveling bag to see whether you remembered to bring your slippers, or ask the station attendant innumerable unnecessary questions about why the train is late. If you have been unable to get any lunch and really feel the need of nourishment, then you may be excused for eating a little milk chocolate while you wait, but remember that well-bred people do not eat in any public places save restaurants and other places, especially intended for that.

And the consensus of opinion seems to be that the very well-bred people do not kiss in the station. At any rate, they do it without attracting any undue attention, and save such signs of devotion till they have reached home. To be sure, when we travel in continental Europe we see much kissing and embracing in the railroad stations—fathers embracing their grown sons and brothers with tears in their eyes, kissing brothers, though they may not have been separated for many weeks. But we Anglo-Saxons avoid such overdemonstrativeness and the American way as well as the British way is to reveal as little as possible of our own personal affairs to others in the railway station. We can excuse the woman who weeps audibly in the station when she sees her dear ones departing if she is old or very much overwrought, but the young woman should do her utmost to avoid such demonstration of her feelings in the station. It makes it very much harder for those who leave her, and sometimes is painfully embarrassing. (Copyright.)

ENGLISH KIND TO ANIMALS

Visitor to London Impressed by Fearless Behavior of Dogs and Cats in the Metropolis.

The English are the kindest people in the world to dumb animals. Coming to England for the first time—and not from a foreign country but from one of the dominions—I was struck by this almost universal kindness, writes a correspondent of London Spectator. London, I think, is the only city in the world where that artful animal, the cat, sitting out on the suburban wall or parapet, views passers-by with equanimity, and even permits them to give her a stroking as they pass.

Clearly, the cat has not been "chivvied" for some generations. Setting out in search of rare opportunities to enjoy the sun, pussy keeps a wary eye open for dogs. Man she knows to be tolerant and kind, even man in the stage of boy. I have not noticed the cat so confident in any other part of the world, and what the cat does not know of the people whom she allows to be her hosts is very little.

It is possible to laugh at the degree to which kindness to dumb animals is carried in England; for instance, the organized society to guard against cats being left to starve through inadvertence during the absence of householders on holidays. That seems a little ridiculous at first, especially as the cat is probably the least gracious, though the most grateful, of man's friends among the brutes. But, thinking it over, I have come to the conclusion that the somewhat fussy degree of care for the inferior creatures among the people of these islands is a natural manifestation of the spirit which has made us the great colonizing, empire-building people of the earth.

Tolerance, kindness, sympathy with the weak—these have been the secrets of our imperial success, just as much as adventuresomeness, courage and endurance. The Englishman who does not chivvy a cat does not harass a savage. It is the spirit of live and let live.

World's Most Famous Basilica.

The basilica of St. Mark is a famous Venetian basilica, founded in 830 to receive the relics of the evangelist brought from Alexandria, rebuilt in 976 and given its definitive form in 1052. It is the most famed Byzantine structure of western Europe, cruciform in plan, with five great domes on pendentives, and many smaller domes in subordinate positions. The outer aisle or atrium was added later; with its five deep, many-columned arches, repeated and fantastically canopied above, its rich mosaics, and the wonderful color of its incrustated marbles, it gives, with the domes and many pinnacles, to the exterior its picturesque and unique character. The four celebrated bronze horses in front of the upper middle arch came from Constantinople, and probably adorned originally a Roman triumphal arch. The interior, though it measures only 205 by 164 feet, is one of the most impressive in the world. Almost the whole surface of walls, domes and arches is covered with magnificent mosaics, representing Old and New Testament scenes on a gold ground. Most of the capitals of the columns are by the finest Byzantine, though some are classical; and the road-screen, surmounted by its long row of statues, is at once beautiful and venerable. Externally and internally, and despite regrettable restorations, St. Mark's is the most superb piece of architectural coloring in the world.

Legion Post for Blind.

The American legion post to be formed by the blind soldiers, sailors and marines now at Evergreen hospital will be organized officially as soon as all of the eligibles for membership in the post are able to attend a general meeting at the hospital, according to the Baltimore Sun.

Lieut. Raymond Day, himself sightless, who is taking the lead in the movement, has called a meeting to decide on by-laws and means for organization. While the members of this post, which it is proposed to call Evergreen post, ultimately will be scattered all over the country, it is planned to hold the organization together by means of correspondence that will be intelligible to the blind. Only men made sightless by the war will be eligible.

The national headquarters of the American legion has taken an interest in the post, and it has been tentatively proposed that the other posts of the American legion take steps for getting to the post composed of blind members news of the whole legion and of all activities in the country.

New Skin Disease Reported.

A skin infection of Japanese farmers, which they have associated with manure, has been under investigation by Dr. N. Anto. Treatment is not usually sought, but the symptoms appear to be well marked, and the trouble is liable to recurrence. It is common among persons who weed the fields early or late in the day, when wet with dew or rain. It is more rare in dry weather, though it does not attack laborers in flooded fields, and it is unknown in winter. It is first noticed as an itching of bare hands or feet, small red spots soon appearing. In three or four days the symptoms change to a violent cough, which may continue three to twenty days, and is sometimes attended by bloody expectoration. Though the trouble gradually disappears without treatment, oils and vaseline are thought to be effective in dealing with it. The investigator concludes that this is another disease due to worm larvae that penetrate the skin, after the manner of hookworms.

POULTRY CACKLES

RIGHT FOWLS FOR BREEDING

Hens Are Preferable to Pullets as They Lay Larger Eggs—Free Range Is Favored.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

If cockerels or pullets are used in the breeding flock they should be well matured, poultry specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture advise. Hens are better than pullets. They lay larger eggs, which produce stronger chicks. Yearling and two-year-old hens are better than older ones. Pullets used as breeders should be mated with a cock rather than with a cockerel. If a cockerel is used he should be mated with hens rather than with pullets. As a rule, well-matured cockerels will give better fertility than cocks.

When possible, free range should be provided for the breeding stock. It is better to provide it during the entire fall and winter before the breeding season, but, if this is not possible, free range just preceding and during the breeding season will be of great value. Birds on free range will get more exercise and, therefore, will be in better health and will give higher fertility, better hatchings, and stronger chicks.

The breeding flock needs careful supervision to make sure that the fowls keep in good breeding condition. The birds and the houses should be examined often to see that they are not infested with lice or mites. Either of these pests in any numbers will seriously affect or totally destroy fertility. Care must be exercised also to see that the male does not frost his comb or wattles. If these are frosted his ability to fertilize eggs will be impaired and may not be recovered for several weeks. On very cold nights when there is danger of the combs being frosted the males to be used as breeders must be put in a warm place, such as a box or crate of suitable size partly covered by a bag or cloth. The breeding male should be examined occasionally after feeding to see that his crop is full and that he is not growing thin. Some males will allow the hens to eat all the feed, with the result that they get out of condition. If this happens the male must be fed separately from the hens at least once a day.

Provide the breeding stock with comfortable quarters. The house must be draft proof, yet well ventilated and dry. The birds should not be crowded. If the birds are yarded, 4 square feet of floor space per bird should be allowed, but on free range from 3 to 3½ square feet per bird will be enough.

The breeders must be fed so as to keep them in such condition that they will produce eggs. Any good laying ration is suitable for this purpose. Beef scrap should not run above 10 or 15 per cent of the total ration. The birds should be kept in good flesh but should not be allowed to become excessively fat. All whole or cracked grain should be fed in litter. This forces the fowls to exercise by scratching for it. As a supply of green feed is usually lacking late in the winter or early in the spring, sprouted oats, cabbage, mangels, or cut clover or alfalfa should be fed.

GIVE CHICKS SKIMMED MILK

Considered Desirable for Youngsters During First Week, According to Specialists.

Skimmed milk is considered by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture very desirable for chicks during the first week. In order to insure that all chicks get the milk it is advisable to dip the chick's beak in milk before it gets any other food. (This can best be done when removing chicks from the incubator.) Give milk to drink as long as it is advisable.

MUCH LOSS IS PREVENTABLE

Farmers Lose $15,000,000 Every Year by Selling Fertile Eggs—Rooster Is Cause.

Selling fertile eggs for market purposes during warm weather cost farmers $15,000,000 a year, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. This loss is preventable. The rooster makes the egg fertile. The fertile egg makes the blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market.

Century's Coming-of-Age.

The present century is the coming-of-age of age until January 1, 1922. It began on January 1, 1901, and not on the first day of 1900, as so many people imagine. The first century was completed in 100 years. The second began with the year 101, and, of course, the analogy follows through all succeeding centuries.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

PASS IT ALONG

"HEARD a good story the other day," he said, and then he related a clean, wholesome anecdote, which is said to have originated with the late Champ Clark.

He was passing along a little of the joy of life. He was distributing smiles.

There is a manufacturing establishment up in New England, not a big enterprise. It is a sort of family affair in which all the workmen and their wives and sweethearts have a more than wage-envelope interest.

The principal reason is that the man who started it decided that he was going to pass along the joy of the success, if it was a success, and he has continued to do so from the day the little factory opened.

If a particularly big order comes in he writes a little bulletin about it and gives it to the superintendent, and at the bottom of the slip of paper are always the words "Pass It Along."

That means that everybody in the factory knows the good news almost as soon as the owner does.

And one year when the profits showed larger than usual he had the bookkeeper draw up a little statement of the year's surplus.

When it was in his hands he took his pen and dividing the total by two he drew a ring around the quotient and a line from the ring led to the words "Pass It Along," which meant that half of all the profits was divided among the workmen.

The game of "Pass It Along" is a great game. So many can play at it. It needn't take any money to start.

EQUAL PAY

THERE is one big issue to settle in the world of business and labor, the issue of equal pay for equal work. Evidences of injustice are found everywhere. One woman held a position in a college for which she was paid $1,800 a year. She resigned because she needed a higher salary; a man took the position. He gets a salary of $5,000. The United States government also pays women less than men in many positions.

There are several reasons for this state of affairs. The fact that women were not voters is one of them. That will now cease to be a deterrent.

Then, women do not insist on being justly remunerated. Women are still new in business. It is something of a wonder to them that they are considered worth a salary at all. They accept what is offered, and make no kick when it is less than their brother gets for a similar position.

Then, unfortunately, women often do not give as good an account of themselves as men. Many women do as well as men, a few do better, but many do not do as well. It is these who make it possible to exploit the rest.

It lies with women, finally, as to whether or not they shall receive equal pay. It should be demanded by every woman. Also, the training of women for earning a living must be improved, and the standards of her work bettered.

JUNE.

I KNEW you were coming, June, I knew that you were coming! Among the alders by the stream I heard a partridge drumming; I heard a partridge drumming, June, a welcome with his wings, And felt a softness in the air half Summer's and half Spring's.

I knew that you were nearing, June, I knew that you were nearing— I saw it in the bursting buds of roses in the clearing; The roses in the clearing, June, were blushing pink and red. For they had heard upon the hills the echo of your tread.

I knew that you were coming, June, I knew that you were coming, For every warbler in the woods a song of joy was humming, I know that you are here, June, I know that you are here— The fairy month, the merry month, the laughter of the year.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"ASSASSIN."

IN 1090 there was founded in Asia a secret society known as the "Fedavis" or "Devoted Ones," the members of which were pledged to implicit blind obedience to the orders of their superiors, no matter what direction these orders might take. Hassan ben Sabbah, the Persian, who founded the dreaded order, was extremely explicit in the rules he laid down for the government of the organization, which was partly religious and partly secular in nature. The members of the lower sections of the society were kept in total ignorance of the teachings and aims of the body to which they belonged, and it was impressed upon them that unfailing obedience was their only key to success in this life and happiness in the next.

In order to give them a foretaste of the joys which were in store for them, provided they followed instructions, Hassan ben Sabbah directed that they be given a specified ration of hashish, or hemp—a narcotic which produced effects analogous to those resulting from the use of opium—and from this practice the members of the society became known as hashishin or hemp-eaters. Europeans slightly altered the word to "assassin" and applied it to anyone guilty of murder, this crime being a favorite among the Fedavis.

SCHOOL DAYS

There is only one type of artist whose achievements make every type of society from the earliest to the latest; and that creator is Motherhood.—W. Shaw Sparrow.

A FEW SALADS.

A SALAD is a part of the menu, which, if well prepared, is the chief attraction. A well made salad should be an ornament as well as a food. The following are unusual but good:

Russian Salad.

Cut crisp, tender celery into bits, add a small can of Russian caviar, and the same quantity of anchovies as caviare. Add as much tomato pulp as celery and mix with mayonnaise. Serve in tomato cups.

Spanish Salad.

Cut into dice three slices of stale bread. Add an equal quantity of cold cooked potatoes, three tomatoes sliced and one onion chopped fine. Rub the salad bowl with the cut side of a clove of garlic, put in the salad and pour over plenty of French dressing.

Onion Salad.

Slice a large Spanish onion and let stand in water for two hours; drain, put into a chopping bowl and chop; arrange in a nest of lettuce with minced parsley and put over a highly seasoned French dressing.

Strawberry Salad.

Arrange tender white lettuce in a salad bowl in cup shapes or as individual salads on plates. Fill each lettuce cup with fine ripe strawberries; put a tablespoonful of seasoned mayonnaise in each cup.

Pea and Walnut Salad.

Take equal quantities of cooked peas and English walnuts broken in bits. Sprinkle with French dressing, let stand half an hour and mix with mayonnaise dressing. Serve in lemon cups or on lettuce.

Shad Roe Salad.

Cook the roe in salted acidulated water with a slice of onion for twenty minutes. Drain, cool, cut into slices and sprinkle with French dressing. Add a cucumber, diced, and a few diced olives. Mix with mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce; garnish with shredded green peppers.

Hunter's Omelet.—Beat the yolks of four eggs until lemon-colored and thick, adding one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper and one tablespoonful of water. Beat the whites until stiff and add one-half teaspoonful of salt. Fold the whites into the yolks and cook in a well greased omelet pan until well puffed, then place in the oven to cook on the top. The cooking should be done as quickly as possible to avoid toughening the omelet. Spread over half of the surface a mixture of chopped veal, or other cooked meat, season with toasted bacon and chopped cooked spinach. Fold the omelet, slide on a hot dish and pile heated canned tomatoes over the top, drained from all liquid; garnish with mushrooms or sliced green peppers and triangles of buttered toast.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SOME LIVE EAGLES

Troop 15 of Buffalo has passed its ten-year mark and still "going stronger." One of the most interesting features of its organization is its Eagle Life patrol, into which regular troop members graduate on reaching the age of seventeen or on going away to college. These Eagle Life members meet quarterly and have their own officers, organization and constitution, but they also meet with the troop and participate, at least three times a year, in a common program. Troop 15 has several "big ideas." One of these is contained in its slogan, "college for all." At present the troop has 12 boys in college, nine of whom declare that they would not have gone to college if it had not been for the influence of Troop 15. Scholarships amounting to several thousand dollars have been secured through the Eagle scholarship bureau.

Other Eagle departments are a vocational bureau, now in its seventh year, which has filled a real need and been remarkably successful, a travel bureau, which keeps records of journeys, with pictures and data, for the benefit of Eagles or their relatives traveling and the Eagle Troop development, established in 1917, which works through the individual Eagle keeping him active and interested in scouting. Some of the results of this service are: One Eagle a scoutmaster, three Eagles (two of them members of the American Legion) all assistant scoutmasters of Troop 15, five Eagles, assistant scoutmasters in their respective college town, and another, an assistant scoutmaster in the city in which he works.

An extension educational scheme is also another bright idea of the enterprising Eagles, a plan which looks to the encouragement of every Eagle to continue to study after graduation, and in general to enlarge his vision and keep his standards high. Certain annual honors are awarded the Eagles at their June meeting. For instance, the Eagle Feather is awarded the Eagle who has done the most worthwhile work in literature during the year. The Eagle Heart is awarded that Eagle who has done the most during the year to aid in growth and progress of Troop 15. The White Eagle is awarded the Eagle who, out in the world, best upholds the ideals of Troop 15 and the Boy Scouts of America generally for service.

WHAT SCOUTS ARE DOING.

In Kansas City boy scouts annually participate in the sanitary survey of the city conducted under the auspices of the Health department. Over 500 scouts turned out last spring for this service which included a census of fire hazards and health menaces throughout the entire city. Similar service is being rendered in many other cities by scouts.

Among other things, Erie, Pa., scouts last year built bird houses, conducted a Learn-to-Swim campaign, contributed to the Marine Memorial, aided in Salvation Army and Community Chest drive, acted as aides at Rotary Club convention, decorated soldier's graves, co-operated with the state game warden in planting walnut trees and distributed invitations to foreigners to attend Americanization classes.

Troop 1 of Florence, Alabama, took school census, aided chamber of commerce in checking up Federal census, and instructed 2,500 people in the use and location of fire alarm boxes. Scouts of Bucyrus, Ohio, made an efficient collection of outstanding library books for the public library, conducted a clean-up in an old cemetery resetting stones and markers, acted as guides and messengers for over 400 delegates at the State Young People's conference.

Boy Scouts of Riverside, Cal., took a tree census, reporting not only number but species and location of each. For five years past they have guarded and patrolled the trails leading to the summit of Rubidoux Mountain, on the occasion of the Easter sunrise service.

SCOUTS BUILD MOTOR TRUCK.

A scout is ingenious. If anybody doubts it, let him look at the motor truck which some thrifty boy scouts out in Maxwell, Iowa, have recently built out of junked automobiles, with the addition of a damaged stationary engine which they got at a bargain. The car makes only ten miles an hour but it can and does carry a big load of boys and their duffel when they wish to convey themselves to camp and elsewhere. The hand-built car recently made the trip to the state fair with its owners where it aroused much interest.

NEWS OF SCOUTS.

Scouts of Lawton, Okla., are not only going quite extensively into the tree nursery business but are also supplying canna bulbs and asparagus roots from their own gardens.

The scoutmaster of Troop 1, Helmetta, N. J., recently wrote and staged a successful play designed to demonstrate the value of scout training. The entertainment had excellent results in interesting the public and recruiting new scouts.

SPLINTER MARKS FAR NORTH SOMEWHAT HARD TO EXPLAIN

Little Peninsula Extending Into Lake of the Woods in Canada Is American Territory.

Many Americans have worried about a stubby little peninsula which extends from Canada into the Lake of the Woods north of the forty-ninth parallel, which marks the established boundary between Canada and the United States from the Lake of the Woods to Puget sound.

This small area, chopped off from Canada and surrounded on three sides by the waters of the Lake of the Woods, belongs to the United States. Disregarding Alaska, it is the northernmost land of the American republic.

No map shows any town or village in the remote and isolated region. It appears merely as a trackless forest wilderness.

Now it is indicated that there is a village in this forgotten enclave, for a post office has been established at Penasse, and a weekly mail service is maintained. During the winter the service will be by horse and sleigh across the ice of the lake.

In the summer a motorboat will be used.

The United States is richer in helium than any other country.

Principal Could Hardly Have Chosen More Inopportune Moment to Make His Entry.

I was a callow school teacher, nervous and anxious to please, writes a correspondent. In my first year I followed the usual scheme, substituting or cadeting for teachers absent for various causes. I was at a school one day teaching in the absence of a woman who was ill. During the morning exercises I read a couple of chapters from a story, as was her custom. I cannot remember the name of the book, but I had just read "But here comes the author of all our troubles," when the door suddenly opened and in walked the principal. The room, composed of high-school sophomores, burst into one prolonged roar of laughter. The principal, a man insistent upon his dignity, waited patiently, but one burst of laughter followed another. I tried to explain, but began to laugh myself. Finally, realizing that it was the only way to restore order, he left the room. Later I explained and he saw the joke.

April Fool Jokes.
According to tradition the custom arose from the fact that Noah sent out the dove on the first of the month, which corresponded to our April, before the water had abated. To perpetuate the memory of the great deliverance of Noah and his family, it was customary on this anniversary to punish persons who had forgotten the remarkable circumstance connected with the date by sending them on some foolish errand, similar to that on which the patriarch sent the luckless dove from the windows of the ark.

work and men.

Work is the greatest boon ever conferred on man. Had he been able to live without it his development would have been hopeless. Look at the races to whom life is easy, where Nature is most luxuriant and productive, where there being no cold, no clothes are needed, and where food can be gathered without the planting or cultivation. They are the weakest of God's creatures and no progress can be expected of them. The stronger races are those who have much to do to live. Work has made them.—William Howard Taft.

FORCED TO FIGHT FOR HER BREATH

Nashville Artist Tells of Terrible Suffering Experienced by His Wife.

HUSBAND GOES DOWN HILL

Finally Both Decide to Put Tanlac to Test and as a Result Have Enjoyed Best of Health for Past Three Years.

"Both my wife and myself have put Tanlac to the test and we call it the greatest medicine in the world," said J. T. Montamat, 1123 Third Ave., North, Nashville, Tenn., artistic sign painter for the Cusack Company. Mr. Montamat has lived in Nashville for nearly thirty years and is highly respected by all who know him.

"Before my wife took Tanlac she suffered so badly from gas on her stomach and heartburn that she often said she felt like she was smothering to death. She actually had to sit up in bed to get her breath.

"Well, in a short time after she began taking Tanlac her trouble disappeared and she was like a different person. Seeing the good results in her case, I began taking the medicine myself and it soon had me feeling like a brand new man.

"Up to that time I had been troubled with indigestion. I had no appetite and the little I did eat seemed to do me about as much harm as good. I felt so tired and languid I hated to move around, and was getting in such a run-down condition that it worried me.

"Tanlac acted with me just like it did with my wife, and although that was three years ago we have enjoyed the best of health all along. However, I keep a bottle of Tanlac in the house all the time, and when I feel myself getting run down the medicine soon has me feeling all right again. I am convinced that Tanlac is without an equal. Our friends all know how it helped us and I don't hesitate to tell anyone about it."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Robert and Aunt Mary.

Robert Denaree of Franklin, age three, received a number of Easter baskets and bunnies, and one aunt had delighted him by hiding colored eggs in her yard and letting him hunt for them. His mother in talking to him at night said:

"And do you know, Robert, it made Aunt Mary just as happy as you, for she loves you so much." Robert replied:

"Yes, and I think Aunt Mary is the whole cheese, mother." The parents are still wondering where he heard it.—Indianapolis News.

Not Flattering to Father.

The doctor's little six-year-old was entertaining the caller, a new neighbor, until her mother appeared, and was chatting away at a great rate. Presently the caller asked something about the little one's grandmother.

"Why, don't you know?" cried the child.

"Know what, dear?"

"Why, grandma is dead and grandpa is dead and Aunt Alice is dead—and most all papa's patients are dead, too."—Boston Transcript.

Help That Aching Back!

Is your back giving out? Are you tired, miserable, all run down, tortured with nagging backache, lameness and sudden, stabbing pains? If so, look to your kidneys. Overwork, hurry and worry tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache and all worn out feeling is often the first warning. Get back your health while you can. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy thousands recommend. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case. Kasper Schmitt, insurance agent, 309 Lawrence Bldg., Sterling, Ill., says: "I had stitches in the small of my back when I bent over, and got so bad I had to quit work. The kidney secretions passed irregularly and I had to get up often at night. Headaches and dizzy spells came on me frequently. Four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of the attack."

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

CONTEMPT.

"State why you believe the prisoner is insane," directed the learned judge.

"He always bets heavily on two pair in a poker game."

"Is a man insane when he bets on two pair?"

"In my opinion he is."

The judge's face grew purple.

"Ten dollars," he roared, "for contempt of court."—American Legion Weekly.

A Heartrending Affair.

Movie Actress—The new cowboy tells me that you and he are not on friendly terms. He hinted you had trouble over an affair of the heart. Who was the lady, and what was the trouble?

Bill the Cowboy (grimly)—Well, if he's told you that much, reckon I can tell you the rest. The lady was the queen of hearts, and the trouble started when I caught him slipping her up his sleeve.—Film Fun.

An Appreciated Auditor.

"Your small boy asks you a great many puzzling questions."

"He does," rejoined Senator Sorghum, "but it's a relief to go home and listen to him. He always believes I am giving him the correct answers, which is more than I can say for my constituents."

Wouldn't Be All at Sea.

"But suppose," they said to him, "this bill you are so keen about should cause your party to throw you overboard?"

"Well, in that case," the young politician responded, "I am quite sure I'd have strength enough to swim across to the other side."

Tis to Sigh.

A certain prima donna says she's fat and she is glad. The deceptions of the ladies make us not a little sad.

The Limit.

"Henry," ejaculated Mrs. Smith, "I see in the papers that William Simpson just got married."

"Just got married?" retorted Smith, making ready for a swift exit. "Ain't that enough?"—American Legion Weekly.

That's Different.

Bacon—You're looking fine, old man; what have you been doing?

Egbert—I've given up coffee.

"Good! I told you long ago you should give it up. There's a reason, you know."

"Well, you see, every time I ate coffee."

"Oh say now; nobody eats coffee."

"I say, whenever I ate coffee-cake it gave me indigestion, so I gave up eating it."

Specializing.

"Yes, my two daughters are studying music. I expect they will be in great demand for dances."

"Pshaw, girls used to learn the piano, but we have player-pianos now."

"Just so. And that's why my girls are studying the cowbell and the drum."

In the Flat Next Door.

She—What makes you think I worship you?

He (pointing to very well-done roast)—This burnt offering.—Fargo N. D.

Thrills.

"Why don't you make one of those old-fashioned ringing speeches that thrill the hearts of the multitude?"

"Because," replied Senator Sorghum, "people who want thrills no longer depend on orations. They go to the pictures."

Suitability.

"Is your daughter going to a dance?"

"No, she wouldn't dress so elaborately for a dance. She's going to work."

THE MEDICINE BOTTLE.

"If you think my life is a pleasant one," said the Medicine Bottle, "I'll tell you from the start that it isn't. In the first place I was in the doctor's office. I saw the people quake and shake when they were told they had to take some bitter medicine. I don't suppose they really shook as much as I thought they did, but I was standing quite still at the time and they seemed to make a great deal of fuss.

"Then I heard someone say, 'Doctors give us horrible stuff, when we think we're sick enough, but after all they make us well.' And this fact, too, I think we should tell."

"Then someone else said, 'I wonder if the doctor has taken from the medicine bottle which must be shaken.' 'It's hard to swallow it and be held by the nose.' 'While we get down the horrible dose.'"

"Such are the things I've heard," said the Medicine Bottle.

"Did all the people speak like that asked the little White Pills. 'They didn't speak in rhyme like that,' said the Medicine Bottle, 'but those were the things they said which I've changed into rhymes.'

"A medicine bottle must have something to cheer it up at times. 'Yes, I'll tell you my life is not a pleasant one. I'm never greeted with a smile. Fancy that, White Pills! I'm never greeted with a smile. I'm always greeted with a scowl, often with tears and usually with grumbles."

"No one likes me! It is too bad! When I am empty I am filled up again. Oh, I have a horrid life."

"Now, you're not bad to take at all. People take you very easily and without complaint in the least. You are so easy to take."

"You can be swallowed down with a drop of water and no one can taste you."

"But think, Medicine Bottle," said the White Pills, "when you're being taken folks can be pretty sure they're getting something whereas with tasteless pills, as we are, it doesn't seem as though we amount to anything."

"Oh," said the Medicine Bottle, "it is good of you to cheer me up. But I can't very well be cheered up."

"Here I sit on the mantelpiece and three times a day taken down and shaken as though they'd like to kill me. I do believe, and then with groans or tears or complaints I'm swallowed. Or rather, some of the medicine from me is swallowed."

"And the faces that are made about me! Oh, they're awful! Truly, awful faces are made up because of me!"

"Now you are taken without all that fuss. You do good even if you don't taste bad."

"But I taste so bad that no one can appreciate me, or rather the medicine in me."

"It's a terrible life that I lead! And when I am emptied I will be filled again. Or for a time I may sit about with a lot of other ugly medicine bottles, and we'll all be put on a shelf that sees very little life, and there we'll gather dust."

"We'll stay there, some of us with a little medicine left in us and outside of us as well, until we're wanted for refilling."

"I started from a doctor's office, and here I am in this house."

"Goodness only knows when I'll go back to the old shelf again. I wish the doctor would take me back. I never did the doctor any harm."

"I helped him all I could. All I knew how! But oh dear, life is very hard when one has to go through it and be scowled at wherever one goes."

"And the very worst thing about it is that I wouldn't really have a great deal of respect or admiration for any one who smiled at me, for it would show they had wretched taste. Yes, that is the saddest part of my sad story! I may do good, but oh, the medicine that I hold, tastes too horrid for mere words to describe!"

"Wheat Gets Thrashed."

"Now, Edwin," said the Sunday school teacher to a member of the juvenile class, "which would you rather be—the wheat or the tares?"

"The tares," answered Edwin.

"Why?" asked the teacher in surprise. "How can you say that when you know wheat represents the good and the tares the bad?"

"Oh, that's all right," replied the precocious youngster, "the wheat gets thrashed and the tares don't."

PLEA FOR THE HEN

Surely Poor Biddy Is Entitled to Some Consideration.

Writer Points Out How Modern Inventions Have Made Her Work Harder to Perform—Latest Is the Airplane.

There seems to be no rest in this world for the busy and useful hen. While devoting all her spare time to the work of producing eggs for mankind to eat, she is obliged to put her well and favorably known intellectual processes to the task of studying the strange characteristics of those for whom the eggs are laid. Always with anxiety, and often with fear and trembling and with accompanying cackling, she watches the new devices which man produces for her destruction. Long ago, it seems now, she was startled by that strange demon of the road that man called a bicycle. When it came along she could never tell which side of the road was the safer, so she fluttered aimlessly and almost without hope from one side to the other.

In the course of time and with the aid of experience, frequently painful and sometimes fatal, she learned that it was safer to stay where she was than to try to dodge the thing. Then came along that still more fearful contrivance, the automobile, to interfere with her career and to interrupt the important business of getting the eggs laid. Many a hen has lost her head because of the automobile, while many others merely lost their nerve. But the automobile has become so frequent a sight upon the country roads that the hen has generally come to regard it with a certain measure of indifference. She has practically ceased to be frightened away from her steady job of egg-laying, and goes about her business as usual, in spite of the smelly, noisy, careless and uncertain devil wagons.

But now comes along another terror. Pro-Bono Publico, a famous citizen of every community, has written about it to the Daily News of St. John's, Newfoundland. "As one who protested against the bicycle nuisance 20 years ago," he writes, "I desire to join in the present agitation to prevent motorcars from using the public roads," and he tells a moving tale of the discomforts they cause and the trouble they produce. But this is all preliminary to his real complaint. That is directed against the airplane ocean voyagers who have flocked to Newfoundland for the hop-off. Of these he says:

"I also wish to voice a protest against airplanes being allowed to fly over the city, frightening our poultry, and thereby interfering with the supply of eggs, so important during the present shortage of food. This nuisance is only just beginning, and now is the time to stop it before the airplane becomes as great a pest as the bicycle and the motorcar."

The hen is doing her best to perform her duty to man and to keep up with man's vagaries, but it is a severe strain on her intellect. If man wants her to supply his table with eggs, he should be more considerate.—Hartford Courant.

Rent Profiteering in Manila.

Landlords, owners of residences and business buildings in Manila, says the Times of that city, are taking advantage of the paucity of home and commercial structures to raise rents abnormally. Workers for salaries or wages, and firms and companies in mercantile pursuits complain bitterly of the demands of the owners or lessors of houses and stores, factories and bodegas.

Most of the victims have to yield to the increased rents because they have no recourse. One man who paid $40 a month for his small, uncomfortable home, has been informed that he must pay $50.

The Times has urged that the city authorities establish a rental commission to which lessees and renters who believe they are being gouged can appeal for adjustment. We have commissions for fixing rates for travel for men, animals and freight. How much more necessary one to regulate the charges for one's home or place of business. We refuse utility companies the right to exact more than a certain sum for certain service, and yet permit landlords to mulct the renter who must suffer the injury or move into the open air.

War Sets New Standard for Wives.

Practically every able-bodied man in the French colonies of North Africa saw service in the war. The sojourn of so large a proportion of these Moslems in Europe in close contact not only with European troops but with the American "dough boys" is a fundamental factor in the breaking up of prejudice against Christianity. A changed attitude toward women is noticeable in the fighting men from North Africa as another result of the war's influence. A number of Moroccans and other tribesmen married French girls of the lower classes while in France. Although the lot of these girls is indeed a hard one, because of the primitive conditions under which they must live in their adopted country, they have opened the eyes of the men to the fact that a woman can be something more than a chattel.

Schools for girls in both Algiers and Constantine are beset at times by Moslem men seeking wives with more learning than those of former days.

When soft winds stir the meadow grass,
When butterflies flit over;
When honey bees, all burdened, seek
The fields of fragrant clover;
When singing birds and crooning
broods
Seem blissfully in tune,
And buttercups and daisies nod,
'Tis June, dear heart, 'tis June.

WHAT'S IN A PIE?

There are those who consider the filling of a pie the most important part of it, but the best of filling covered with a tough, unpalatable crust, will spoil the pie for most of us. As Browning puts it (though not in this connection), a good pastry is "a framework which waits for a picture to frame."

Sour Cream Pie.—Take one cupful each of sour cream, sugar and raisins, one-half teaspoonful of salt, the same of cinnamon and nutmeg, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves, mix well and bake with two crusts.

Custard Pie.—There are some cooks who think a pie with less than four eggs is not to be served on the best tables. However, a very good pie may be prepared with three or even two eggs to a pint of milk, adding four or five tablespoonfuls of sugar and such flavoring as one likes. Where two eggs are used a tablespoonful of flour may be added mixed with a little of the cold milk and the pie will be very satisfactory, though of course the more eggs used the greater the food value.

Date Pie.—Cook one-third of a pound of dates in the top of a double boiler. Put through a sieve, then add two eggs, a few gratings of nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and two cupfuls of milk. Bake as a custard pie.

Currant Pie.—Take one cupful of currants, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of flour, mixed with the sugar, two egg yolks and a teaspoonful of butter with two tablespoonfuls of water. Cook until smooth and turn into a baked crust. Cover with a meringue made with the whites of two eggs and two to four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Dot with marshmallows and brown. The preserved currants may be used for this pie, using nearly two cupfuls for the pie.

Do little things now; so shall big things come to thee by and by asking to be done.—Persian Proverb.

FOOD AND LABOR ECONOMIES.

We, of necessity, do much planning to get a dollar's worth of food from the dollar expended. Now, dinners of function do not exceed five courses, while in the home a four-course dinner is sufficiently elaborate to suit the most fastidious. Many clever ideas sprang up during the press of war which are too fine to be ever given up. Among these is the plate dinner served in so many restaurants. Meat and vegetables side by side in one receptacle, which reduces the work of serving and dish washing. In the home such dishes as can be cooked and served with the main course in one dish have become very popular.

The serving table or wheeled tray now appears with three stories, so the maidless home may have served the entire dinner with very few steps. The soaring of linen has brought us to bare tables with doilies and runners, which saves us laundry bills and much work. The oilcloth table sets have been a wonderful blessing in many families and the use of the paper napkin is not to be despised.

Living quarters have been reduced until the living room and dining room in many apartments must of necessity be one. The gate-leg table which may be pushed back against the wall when not in use or can serve as the library table when not dining; with screens to use in the room to give some privacy; a couch by day will be the sleeping quarters at night; all add to the comfort.

While we are all working to simplify our mode of living to give us more time to do the things worth while, let us at this season do away with half or more of the bric-a-brac, pictures and other things which are only a weariness to the flesh. In this way, by changing about in spring and fall, we will enjoy and appreciate each piece and picture more fully.

A home to be comfortable and homelike need not be crowded with things; the things we use and enjoy are the only necessary furnishings, and the more space around them the more comfort and enjoyment we will have. When making a rubber sheet, use a strip of just wide enough to cover the portion of the bed, stitching on the edge a piece of strong cotton cloth to use in tucking in, thus saving on the amount of rubber sheeting, which is at present expensive.

The alcohol chafing dish and the electric cooking appliances make a most helpful assistance to the housewife who wishes to entertain.

ANOTHER WOMAN ESCAPES

Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Time

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the floor unless I was all humped over, holding to my side. I doctored with several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me."—Mrs. MARGARET MCCUMBER, 27 S. Frazier St., Georgetown, Illinois.

Mrs. McCumber is one of the unnumbered thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness, and if every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial they would get well.

"Eaten All Up." Johnny was given a surprise party and a number of games were played. Among them was a game called "alligator."

While they were playing Johnny's mother came to the scene. She noticed that one of the children was not playing, so she said: "Why don't you let Larry play?"

"But, mamma," cried Johnny, "we are playing 'alligator' and he's eaten all up."—Buffalo News.

An Adventure Romance

MADGE.

Synopsis.—Robert Hervey Randolph, young New York man-about-town, leaves the home of his sweetheart, Madge Van Teller, charged because of her refusal of his proposal of marriage. His income, $10,000 a year, which he must surrender if a certain Miss Imogen Pamela Thornton (whom he has seen only as a small girl ten years before) is found, is not considered by the girl of his heart adequate to modern needs. In a "don't care" mood Randolph enters a taxi, unseen by the driver, and is driven to the stage door of a theater. A man he knows, Duke Beamer, induces a girl to enter the cab. Beamer, attempting to follow, is pushed back by Randolph and the cab moves on. His new acquaintance tells Randolph she is a chorus girl, and has lost her position. She is in distress, even hungry, and he takes her to his apartment. There, after lunch, a chance remark convinces him the girl is the missing Pamela Thornton. He does not tell her of her good fortune, but secures her promise to stay in the flat until the morning and leaves her. Realizing that the girl's reappearance has left him practically penniless, he bribes the taxi driver to let him take his job, and leaving word with the legal representative of the Thornton estate where he can find Pamela, takes up his new duties under the name of "Slim Hervey."

"Sounds kind-a phony to me," said the captain grimly, "considerin' you took this same gent home a week ago come Friday."

"Did I?" said Slim, and with feigned surprise managed finally to recognize the mess of evening clothes that was huddled on a near-by bench. "You're right, Captain. He's drunker than I ever saw him before and besides, he's wearin' a new set of slit-studs. Kind of changed his look."

Slim lingered. "Look here," he murmured to the captain confidentially. "You're on to me, but just let me whisper. I'm getting to be the delivery wagon for all the high-spot soaks in town. The first one of 'em that loses his jewelry between the curb and his own front door, just tell me where I get off, will you? I'm honest; I got a reputation, an' I tell you, Captain, I'm willing to put 'em through for you when you ask for the home port, but it's nix on me handlin' all the high-explosive freight north of Forty-second street. Get me?"

"Sure, Slim," said the captain, appreciatively. "I'll pass the word, lad."

Thus did Mr. Randolph make good his new front name and a little capital besides, working on the stalwart old motto: Every knock is a boost. Instead of becoming a mystery and consequently anathema to the Force, an impression was created that Slim was a hustler, but clean white goods ready to sacrifice a fare or two that he might sit high up alongside Caesar's wife. By stopping at two or three strategically placed police stations during the wind before the dawn to ticket such drunks as were of his acquaintance, he was able to give the glad hand of farewell to a job not to his taste.

About this time a series of coincidences befell the young and fevered Fair of the city of New York which would have given pause to the persons involved had they been able to get together and compare the dope. Take what happened to Miss Georgiette Hattone. Her people had played in hard luck and died. Georgiette had secured a job and was doing pretty well at it until young Doctor Bones met her and gradually persuaded her that she was threatened with galloping consumption. Once he had frightened her, the rest looked easy; he would take her out of bad ventilation into his run-about and the open-air—out of the goodness of his heart and the fullness of his purse, he would take care of her.

He began by leading her to a Netherland Show and supper afterward. They danced a little and for the first time in her life, but under medical advice, she took something in the way of stimulant after the initial pretty cocktail. They issued from supper and it was when Mr. Chauffeur Slim Hervey heard the whispered address that the game became a threesome.

Counting upon the abstraction, or rather, the concentration of his fares on interior fittings, Driver Hervey soon switched his cab from the chartered route and made for downtown through silent back streets. In just ten minutes he drew up at an old-fashioned house in a very quiet square, shut off his engine to the idle and waited. Not for long. Out of the cab came a blasphemous exclamation in medical tones and with it a cry of awakening from Georgiette. Through one window she looked upon the home of her childhood; through the other upon that happy railed garden-square, which was the umbrageous garner-close of all her dearest, purest and dearest memories.

"Oh!" she gasped. "No, you mustn't scold him. This is just where I want to get out and walk. It's—It's extraordinary." Then from the curb. "I may be going to die of consumption, doctor, but, after all, I'd rather—rather die that way."

Twist things around a little and you'll get what happened to Miss Terry de Guest with the difference that that beautiful and hungry young woman who had all but turned her back on Settlement work and her face to the Great White Way, suddenly awoke not in the moonlit embrace of Clairmonte, but before the accusing face of a House in Henry street.

Nor was Mr. Slim Hervey partial to sex in salvation. There was the instance of young Bertram Blossome who shame-facedly hurried into his cab a painted, wan-faced waif of the street with self-accusing eyes. No case this of hunted and hunter—rather two strayed bits of weak humanity driven before the unleashed dogs of poverty and lust. How readily and unquestioningly the boy slipped from the cab at his home address, miraculously confused almost as by the meddling finger of God with one very different! How gratefully the girl took the possible fare and "something over," and how her tears brimmed when ten minutes later the blue-eyed chauffeur, a wage-earner like herself, said: "Nothing doing, Sister. The ride is on me," and promptly whirled away!

While all these incidents were engaging, each in its own way, and showed a reasonable profit to all concerned, Mr. Randolph looked upon them more or less as a means of getting in his hand during a period of initiation. Once he felt sure of himself and of his new chauffeur point of view and attitude toward the gay world from the under side, he began to haunt the neighborhood of East Ninth street at the hour when dinners are plenty and taxis scarce.

Twice he saw Miss Madge Van Teller carried off in Somebody's private car, but he was not discouraged, for he recognized in the very fact of that public privacy the badge of preliminary outings. In due course his night and hour came. He was hailed by the arriving Mr. Beacher Tremont and ordered to stand by; twenty minutes later he was listening to that gentleman explaining to Miss Van T. that a cylinder had gone wrong on his own car at the last moment.

"I'm Getting to Be the Delivery Wagon for All the High-Spot Soaks in Town."

Miss Madge Van Teller, upon whom Mr. Randolph had not laid eyes since the very definite parting of their ways on the rock of ready cash, was more beautiful tonight than at any other time since the evening of her coming-out party. The reason was one and the same. Tonight, as upon that other, she stood within a threshold and peered out on Life with a big L. A flame was in her cheeks and in her eyes; her lips were half-parted and thirsty, her bosom agitated. She was divinely dressed.

They were very silent on their way to dinner at the Knickerbocker, but they exuded an aura of tense expectancy that made nothing of the glass barrier between them and the car pilot, who soon felt himself lifted and carried on its wave. Something was cooking beyond a doubt and he then and there determined to stick a fist through the crust of the pie just before the smell of burning.

There is nothing more stereotyped than a night run before the fever hounds of New York. It is invariably a four-act play that starts with a single cocktail and a tasty dinner, goes on to a show peppered with double meanings, thickens at the cabaret in the close harmony of booze and dance music and finally bursts "somewhere in the country."

The first act was easy for Randolph; he went on with the villain and the leading lady, but once the revolving door of the hotel had chucked on their backs he had to withdraw to the wings and dope out a means of evolving from a super into a star of the first magnitude. He decided that it didn't much matter who waited the couple from dinner to the show, but that the next entr'act would hold the crux of the night's entertainment, for the cab that secured the freight for the cabaret would stand a good chance of nailing it after the ball.

Consequently he was content to pick up a gutter-snipe and then trail his prey to the theater. "Them is the two," he said to his ally, suborned with the promise of two bits, cash on delivery, "the John with the high hat and the dream-dame in smoke-colored chiffon."

"That's some name for a skirt, Cap," said the extreme youth admiringly, "an' some skirt, believe me. Nor! I won't forget 'em."

And he didn't. No sooner had Mr. Beacher Tremont, bearing a thistle-down burden on his arm, swelled out from the theater with the anxious look on his face of a man with three cars in the garage at home and no call number in his left hand waistcoat pocket, than the lamp was at his side. "Say, mister, wanten taxi? Got one at the head of the line that I'd give up just to youse for a dime."

"Lead me to it," said Mr. Tremont. "Say," said the snipe to Randolph as the car jumped, "I've took the boss inside on fer a friend. You watch yerself."

It was a short run to the lair of the Midnight Rolfe, but Mr. Randolph was not surprised at the double wage he received nor at the murmured conversation that accompanied it. "Till up your gas tank and wait for me at the Seventh avenue northeast corner. Get me?"

"Sure," grunted Mr. Randolph. "Where to, mister?"

"Greenwood hostelry," breathed the villain.

"I'm on," said Mr. Randolph, ran his car to the comfortably quiet nook designated, dug out a road map of Manhattan and vicinity, scrutinized it carefully and settled down to meditate.

To a select and once affluent few the name of the G. hostelry above mentioned will bring certain vivid recollections and will also place the chronology of this yarn, for the said abode of revelry was too good to last very long; it choked to death on its own popularity and consequent publicity. From the outside, even in its hey-day, it presented a most-innocuous appearance, just a renovated farmhouse standing under a clump of weeping sugar-maples on the top of a hill whence the nearest neighbor was out of sight.

But once within its modest portal, its habits found themselves in the cleverest fake atmosphere of a pleasure-loving decade. An organizing genius, sensitive to all those cheap adjuncts which usually grate on the soul hovering at the edge of the decline to Avernus, had pandered effectively to an ignoble end and made of each small room an isle of forgetfulness; price, twenty-five bucks in advance, supper and drinks extra.

For the benefit of those who do not remember the epoch of the Greenwood hostelry and are consequently reading on and on in mortal dread of the paragraph that will introduce the War, let it be said at once, Forget it. Stake out the beginning of the international mix-up, hurl another boundary mark into November of 1918, and the time left outside of those limits will be found entirely sufficient to the needs of this chronicle. Let it further be noted that it is inconceivable that a single drop of the kind of blood which flowed in the veins of Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph could ever answer to the name of slacker, proof positive in itself that the events herein set forth happened when the War didn't.

"Oh, Oh! Take me away from here!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Oysters Have Many Enemies.

Between the planting and the harvest, an interval of from two to five years, the oyster culturist assumes many hazards. On the New England coast, after all his material is down, the fickle "set" may not appear, possibly because at the critical time some weather disturbance may have killed the baby oysters while they were yet swimming near the surface. In the Gulf of Mexico the "set" may be so heavy that there is scant room for the oysters to grow, and many die, while those that are left are half starved and misshapen from crowding. Even when the little oysters or "spat," have attached themselves in favorable numbers, their perils have just begun. They are never safe from other enemies until they fall into the hands of their arch foes.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splash, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little-one.

To them: to these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

Death in the Dishrag.

According to a government report the influenza case rate for a group eating from plates and utensils washed by hand was 324 cases per 1,000 inmates, as compared with a rate of 108 per 1,000 inmates from that group eating from dishes washed by dish-washing machines. In view of these figures, hand washing of dishes permits at least one disease to attack three times as many persons as does the dishwashing machine.

MOKENA

Through the efforts of the Mokena band and the Home Improvement club a Memorial day program was carried out at the village park. Ona E. McGovney served as chairman of the day. Rev. W. J. Kemnitz, pastor of the local Immanuel Lutheran church, delivered the address. He was one of the best speakers heard here on such an occasion. His address was full of vital points and to the point. The boy scouts decorated the soldiers' graves and the band played at the Marshall cemetery. The News-Bulletin agitated the carrying out of a Memorial day program weeks ago, but the smallpox scare coming on, all efforts at getting up a program had to be held up.

William Hoffman, who has been visiting with his mother in Germany, has written to Hirsch Bros., for whom he has worked for the past ten years, that he wants to come back here. As he has only taken out his first papers, a question arose whether he would be readmitted to this country under the new immigration laws. Charles Hirsch took up the matter with Senator R. J. Barr, who has taken the matter up further with Congressman Ira C. Copley. Mr. Hoffman has good recommendations here, and no doubt there will be no difficulty encountered in being re-admitted. He also intends bringing a brother and a sister with him. He had one brother in the German army in the Russian campaign. Ten horses were shot from under him and he was wounded many times.

Charles Hirsch, who recently was a delegate from this section at Springfield in favor of the Lantz bill, received a petition the latter part of the week and got 50 farmers to sign it, and returned it showing they were in favor of the bill. Mr. Hirsch says that the opposition side has set up the argument that the farmers want to do away with the board of trade, but this is not true. What they seek to eliminate is the speculative side, where the big buyers will buy millions of bushels of grain that only exists on paper.

The Mokena Men's club held their first moonlight picnic Saturday night. A good crowd attended and 141 tickets were sold. The next dances will be as follows. June 11, 25, and July Fourth.

A. W. McGovney and son Hugh of Oak Park visited with Mokena relatives Memorial day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Houchin and Miss L. A. Justus of Chicago motored out Sunday and visited with their aunt, Mrs. John Semmler, over Memorial day.

The village board has purchased 6,500 gallons of road oil and will oil the village streets within another week or ten days. Mokena will be a dustless town this summer.

Rev. William Kreis, pastor of the St. John Evangelical church, took part in exercises at Elmhurst on Memorial day.

Memorial day services were held at the Cooper's Grove Lutheran church and at the cemetery.

Mrs. Charles Beck of Orland township celebrated her fiftieth anniversary on Decoration day. A very large crowd was present and was royally entertained.

Mrs. Fred Warning is improving from her recent operation at Silver Cross hospital.

The Mokena Hardware Company is very busy in this locality at present hanging eave troughs and doing tinwork.

The patriotic and historic play given at the Marley church Memorial day evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed.

Row Artists Paint the Cat
The beauty of the cat is very depicted, for under the grace of the feline, the concentrated steel of the fur, the cat is more difficult to paint than a cat. Those who catch the feline's softness usually miss its strength, and vice versa. Rosa Bonheur seldom painted him, preferring his less subtle brother, the lion. Landseer, after two youthful attempts, threw up the sponge.
